IRISH PICKETS AND THEIR EXPERIENCE IN WASHINGTON

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Political picketing, often of the peaceful sort, and more often with militant accompaniments, is running epidemic in Washington again and the thousands of tourists who make the national capital their mecca all year round see bands of women slowly parading about the streets bearing banners with a wide variety of inscriptions.

The British embassy, for instance, is foreign territory, whether the sidewalk in front of it is American territory, no one has essayed to decide. Moreover, there is a federal law which penalizes any person who "assaults" a diplomatic representative of a friendly power. Whether picketing of the embassy is an annoyance to the British diplomats, and whether an annoyance is an insult within the technical meaning of the law is an additional question.

Then there is involved the question of preserving the public peace, for disturbances often crowd out of the picketing. Often, some woman purposely expresses her disagreement with the banners the pickets bear by ripping them to bits and the pickets and the picket have a skirmish, with sometimes regular old fashioned hair pulling. The police patrol clanks up, both parties in the quarrel are hustled off to the station house. Relief pickets immediately arrive. The police court gets another case.

The personnel of the picketing forces furnishes an interesting study in human nature. They are women apparently from all walks of life. Many bear evidences of breeding, education and social position. Others are women who appear to be of the opposite types. Every picketing campaign brings out new charges that many pickets are "hired" for the work by others who are willing to provide substitutes and do not wish to picket in the streets in all sorts of weather.

British humor all but broke up the picketing of the British embassy, with its possibilities of disagreeable incidents of an international flavor, when on the first day, the embassy official sent out and invited the pickets in to afternoon tea. It probably was a temptation, for the cold raw wind was sweeping the city, but the leaders pulled stern faces and declined the invitation.

The embassy is on Connecticut avenue in the heart of the downtown business and residence district not far from Dupont circle. The neighborhood might be compared to Fifth Avenue in New York in the fifties. Thousands of shoppers, tourists and government clerks and officials on their way to office pass by and for days there was always a small crowd watching the pickets and hoping for a skirmish. The pro-Irish pickets selected a battle ground where there will be plenty of on-lookers.

The first arrests of the Irish picketers were not unaccompanied by elements of humor. The police captain who took them in was Robert Emmett Doyle, rosy-cheeked and blue-eyed, who couldn't possibly deny he was a son of Erin. All the picketers on the job were O'Connell's, Regan's, and Flaherty's or have names unmistakably neither Greek nor Yiddish. Their comments on the proceedings were neutral and humorous.

The whole proceeding was conducted in the height of courtesy and polite formality. There was no "come along, you're pinched." Instead, Captain Doyle raised his cap, and with an engaging smile said, "Ladies, these are policewomen who will place you under arrest." Then the men stepped back and the women did the job.

OKLAHOMA GIRL GRABS INDIAN

(By Associated Press)

TOPEKA, April 17.—Whether the federal supervision of a guardianship law over an Indian is supposed to include in the latter's matrimonial venture, must be decided by the Kansas supreme court in the habeas proceedings brought by Carl J. O'Hornett of Henrietta, Okla., a Creek Indian, Barnett, known as "the richest Indian in the world," owner of lands, valued at more than $2,000,000.

Under the most romantic circumstances, Barnett last February eloped and was married to a young white woman, Mrs. Anna Laura Lowe, at Coffeyville, Kansas. Carl O'Hornett charges that the Indians bride is "an adventurous" of the most pronounced type, and that she "kidnapped" Barnett because of his wealth.

Prosecutors may find these popular epithets, without sufficient basis, at the Missouri office.
